

My bones are bent and crumbling with this cruel burden of patience.

I am sick and furious
at this blind waiting
anticipating
what will not come.

And because I
do not open my mouth
to its violent pressure,
the beast inside
is eating out
my heart.