

I am wrestling with the dark angel again.

It would be easy to submit, to sleep in his feathered darkness.

Instead I fight.

Perhaps, like Jacob's angel, he will touch my thigh and leave me lame but
newly named.